The United States Air Force Band is a musical organization and national ambassador performing in the United States and abroad. The Band's mission is to inspire and connect audiences through dynamic musical performances and educational outreach.

The Band's home is on Joint Base Andrews, Maryland, and its members are officers of the United States Air Force. The Band is composed of over 100 musicians and is led by the commander of the Band, the Band Commander.

The Band's repertoire includes a wide range of musical genres, from classical to contemporary, and often features arrangements of popular tunes and patriotic songs.

The Band performs at events across the country, including military installations, community events, and international engagements.

The Band Commander, Colonel Arland D. Gabrielle, is a recipient of the Distinguished Service Medal and has served in various leadership roles within the Air Force.

The Band's educational programs aim to inspire the next generation of musicians and instill a sense of pride and service to the nation.
